Parents,

Toddlers and two year old's are very unique individuals and are developing at different stages in their life. Some children are verbal but a few of the children use gestures as a form of communication, that includes snatching, biting and scratching one another.

We have had some incidents in our classrooms that all of the above has occurred. The children are communicating by hurting each other. I am asking all parents to work with us by encouraging the children to use soft touches, and to cut their child's fingernails.

Our goal is to keep all the children safe. If you have questions or concern's please feel free to contact me.

Thank you
